CCSS Announces South East Asia Subsidiary

CCSS (Asia) sells to and supports local and multinational firms

December 11, 2006 – CCSS, which develops and markets the QSystem Management Suite of monitoring and messaging software for the IBM System i (formerly known as the IBM iSeries and IBM AS/400), has established a South East Asian subsidiary in the Philippines. CCSS (Asia) is directed by Edward Felicen E. Soro, announces Paul Wright, CCSS International Account Manager.

“We are delighted to have this base from which to grow our business in this rapidly expanding area. CCSS (Asia) customers will benefit from having highly trained sales personnel and first-level support based in the region,” said Wright.

According to the Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN), the 10 member countries averaged a 6.3% increase in GDP in 2004. Trade between the USA and ASEAN members grew from US $136 billion in 2004 to $153 billion in 2005, an increase of 12.4%. Foreign direct investment also continues to grow. ASEAN members are Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Myanmar, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam.

“US and European multinationals continue to invest in South East Asia’s fast growing economies, and most use the IBM System i for their main applications,” said Soro. “They want to manage these servers easily and effectively. The best solutions to do so are the powerful systems management software from CCSS that we offer here in the region.”

“I believe that monitoring the IBM System i servers efficiently and effectively is in the best interest of any company. CCSS solutions are efficient, accurate and highly reliable. Every system administrator dead serious about their responsibilities will certainly appreciate and enjoy the peace of mind as an outcome of investing in CCSS solutions which take on the complex, tedious and time-consuming tasks related to monitoring and managing their IBM System i investment,” Soro explains.

Soro adds that CCSS (Asia) works closely with IBM in the Philippines, and that the company will participate in local users group and other IBM events.

CCSS (Asia) Corporation is located at 5/F Builders' Centre, 170 Salcedo Street, Legaspi Village, Makatic City 1223, Philippines. Phone numbers are +63 (2) 825-9255 and +63 (2) 750-3149 fax. The web site is www.ccssltd.com.
